sketch of the Career of Mr. Cahill-He Studied for the Priesthood for a Time and Then Turned His Attention to Medicine.

The grim reaper selected as one for his Christmas harvest the spirit of Manager Thomas Cahill, of the Scranton Base Ball association. Death took place at 3.30 yesterday morning at Mr. Cahill's boarding house on Penn avenue after an illness which lasted since Thanksgiving eve. On that day Manager Cahill was out the foot ball team for the Thanksgiving game. He was suddenly stricken where he suffered for nearly an hour during the base ball season, and his system was very weak and unable to stand the severe strain, coincident with posed himself too soon.

in, complicating the case. His condi-tion did not appear serious until last temorrhages took place.

His Condition Became Alarming.

Drs. O'Malley and Gunster were conney notified the people where MangerCahlilwas boarding that word had etter be sent to his relatives that his ondition was very serious, and the opes of his recovery were very slight. His father, Thomas Cahill, of Fall River, Mass., and his sister, Nellie, arlived at his bedside Saturday night. Dr. O'Malley had engaged the services of a professional nurse, Miss Jordan, of Boston, and she walted upon him during his illness and until his death. Father O'Reilly, of the cathedral, administered the last sacraments f the Catholic church Sunday at noon

Manager Cahill had just completed his base ball players in the country. His parents' home is in Fall River, Mass., and they and a brother and two sisters survive him. At the age of 14 he entered Holy Cross college, Worcester Mass., with the intention of studying his twentieth year from the classical department with high honors. During his course at the college he won praises as an athlete, and he was exceptionally clever as a base ball catcher and a foot

He Studied Medicine.

In fact he was noted for his supple-ness and activity in all branches of athletics. After he finished his classical course at Holy Cross his mind changed regarding his intended vocation and he concluded to study medicine. He spent that winter at home and the next term he, entered the medibranched out as a professional base ball player. His father states that Manager Cahill's intention was to follow up athletics only for a brief period and then return to college and complete his medical knowledge.

His first appearance on the ball field professionally was in 1891, when he signed with the strong New Haven club of the International league as catcher. His alertness attracted the attention of the managers of the Louisville club of the National league, and Mr. Cahill was signed for the following season, and he distinguished himself behind the bat. In 1893 and the first part of the eason of 1894 Mr. Cahill managed the Troy, N. Y., club of the Eastern league, until that aggregation disbanded, and he came here to manage the Scranton team when the club of our city took Troy's place in the Eastern Very Popular Here.

Although Mr. Cahill's acquaintance with the people of Scranton had been very short, it is not transgressing the truth to say that he was one of the most popular and well liked young men in the city. All who had the pleasure of knowing him testify to his uniform courtesy, gentlemanly deportment and most affable disposition Scranton has lost a true, upright citizen, one who would reflect credit upon it in the field of sports had he lived. Dr. O'Malley attended him from the be-ginning of his illness and unceasingly strove by the application of all remedies known to medical science to save the suffierer's life. The remains were embalmed by Un-, daughter, of New Haven, Conn., are dertaker Cusick and placel on the visiting at the residence of D. J.
